Truth is said to be stranger than fiction. Washington E. Lowe relates an instance on a recent trip to Lake Wawassee a famous fishing resort in Northern Indiana. Mr. Lowe cast a plug to which was attached several gaings of hooks and on landing the strike, was much astonished to see three big mouth bass, totaling about 2½ pounds in weight, fast to his murderous bait. Two were caught in the month, while the third one had gotten in the way in the rush to escape and was hooked through the side. Northern Indiana, Mr. Lowe ca. eversion of the Standard Savings Bank,
